

WoodLab

Application for Volunteer Research Assistants or Individual Project Students (PSY405/6)

Students who are motivated, conscientious, independent thinkers are invited to apply for research assistant positions, as they become available. Participation in the WoodLab requires a commitment of 8-10 hours per week, including attendance and active participation in weekly lab meetings. Research assistants (RAs) will work directly with Dr. Wood, as well as a small number of fellow undergraduate RAs – there are no graduate students or post-docs, so be ready to take on a great deal of responsibility.

Why are you interested in an RA position in this lab?

When are you interested in being an RA (rough start and end dates)? How many weekly hours can you commit?

Please send this application, along with your CV and an unofficial copy of your transcript to Dr. Wood (wood@psych.utoronto.ca). There are very few positions, which are filled on a rolling basis. If there are no positions at this time, your application will be kept and you will be contacted for an interview when a spot becomes available.
